

Abraham: I Left My Daddy's Home
Genesis 12:1 Genesis 12:2

CHORUS:

Left my country and I left my hometown made aliyah but sometimes I'm so down trying to be your blessing but I'm plagued by my own doubt the hardest thing I ever did was to leave my dad's house My soul was wandering my mind was racin I'd lose them both if I didn't chase them Lech Lecha VeHeyeh Bracha... (Go and be a blessing)

And I'm just tryin to live up to my daddy's name and his name is I won't give up you stood tall, in your wheel chair feeding tube feeding you all knew its not fair you were my idol, coolest pops it was your title like a white Bill Cosby you taught me what I know but there was something missin when I listened to my flow trapped in my lung, or tacked to my tongue and I looked for the language for my song to be sung from the New York Times, to the Hollywood sign I spoke what I heard, but the words weren't mine.
Til I hip-hopped a plane and came to Mt. Zion, Bible Raps, who'd a thought that I'd be on that not sure where I'm aiming but I know it's beyond rap and this the voice of my heart cause i'm writing with my blood And my daddy's love, from above

Genesis
11:31

Daddy I remember when your idols gave me splinters, you said the gods were angry to be handled by beginners but then you winked and said that they were jealous of the winners this is temporary work we'd leave for Caanan after winter I think you always knew that the idols were see through but then you got confused as to what else to see to...

I see you makin gods as the candle melts I wake up in morning 40 idols on the mantle shelf stone ones, jade, bronze and even rubies too each god displayed: another to see thru at last you made, an idol shinin like imprisoned lightning it was made of diamond your look was surprising your eyes were crying, your knife was rising you looked it in the eyes and said "Here I am stop me if you can!" on top Mt. Moriah I think I finally understand

Genesis
22:11
